For the quiet canoeer, there is ample opportunity to view the birdlife and wild life along the 125 miles of canoeing trails in the County.

With fine weather having moved in on the region, the trout fishing activity has stepped up, and with promised warm weather late afternoon and evening hatches of Stone Flies and Drakes should be making their appearance.

Daytime fly activity starts in the morning with small yellow May Flies. Robert's Yellow Drake in smaller sizes is the fly to take trout throughout the day. Some Brown Drakes have been observed on the South Branch.

Good catches of trout were reported last week during heavy rains by fishermen working the North Branch by Lovell's, the Upper Manistee, and Big Creek with bait and spinning equipment. Keep our region free of litter.

BITS O' TALK

Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Hills attended the funeral of his brother-in-law, C. Allison Monroe of Grosse Pointe, on Tuesday, May 28th. Monroe passed away on May 23rd. Mr. and Mrs. Hills' daughter Cathy arrived home Saturday from the University of Miami, Coral Gables, Fla., bringing as a guest Richard Race of Hawaii to spend a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Julius Matson were driving home recently about 5 p.m. and ahead of them on M-72 east of School Section Creek an animal crossed the road. Mrs. Matson thought it was an odd looking dog, but when they came closer, the creature had encountered the Camp AuSable fence and been turned back, and they were able to see that it was a black bear. It ran back across the road through the small meadow and into the woods.

Fred Bear was in Rogers, Ark. Sunday to Wednesday of last week on business at the Daisy plant.

RESERVE 50TH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Feldhauser were the guests of honor at an open house May 28 celebrating their golden wedding anniversary, which falls on May 23. The affair was held at the American Legion Hall and was given by their children. Some 123 guests enjoyed the three-hour get-together, from 2 to 5 o'clock, and Paul and Edna enjoyed the numerous gifts and cards from their many friends and relatives. Paul's gift to his bride was a diamond - set golden wedding ring.

The former Edna Wythe and Paul Feldhauser were married by the Rev. Allen Schreier in Gaylord on May 23, 1918, with Emma and Herbert Feldhauser attending. Three days later Paul reported back to Battle Creek, as he was then in the U.S. Armed forces. Mrs. Feldhauser attended summer school in Mt. Pleasant that summer, then joined her husband in September. The couple came back to Grayling the following February, to make their home on the AuSable at the former John Russell camp, above Wakeley Bridge. They lived in the bridge area, in different locations, until moving to Grayling in 1940. They moved back down river in 1944 to the present Pellyjohn location, where they stayed until 1956. They again moved to Grayling, which has been their home since that time.

During these years nine children were born to the Feldhausers, Herbert, James, Charles, Marguerite, Wilma, Ruth, Don, Henry, and Katie. The latter died in 1939 when one year old and Henry in 1984. The couple now has 28 grandchildren, and 8 great grandchildren. All of their family, Trp. Charles with the state police in Marquette, Marge Stark of Mio, Wilma Roth of Bay City, Ruth Cruz of Alma, and Donald of Grayling, with the exception of Herb, from Daytona Beach, Fla., and Jim, with the Air Force at Minot, N.D., were here for the celebration.

It's Litter Season

By Willard Bosserman
County Extension Natural Resource Agent

If there is such a thing as a litter season it is now when more people are in the out-of-doors. It is when the picnic baskets abound and all that comes with it too often is left behind. This would not be so serious if the left behinds were gathered together in a trash container. Too often, however, the left-overs are thrown and scattered with disregard to the next person's enjoyment of mother nature.

It is too bad that we are in a society of Sunday morning piety and afternoon-litterbugs. Why can we not voluntarily discipline ourselves? Why do we obey the litter law only when we think we will get caught?

I have read recently that if it becomes necessary for men to seek another planet on which to live, it will be because we have piled on litter and waste so high on earth that we can no longer live here.

Vance Packard, author of "The Waste Makers" reports we deliberately create waste in order to keep our economy running. Perhaps we have not yet learned how to control the wastes that we create, or perhaps closer to the truth, we have not learned how to live with our abundance of waste.

We scream about higher taxes but expect government to keep our landscape clean after we deplete it. One reason taxes are higher and continue to go higher is that we want government to do things for us that we could just as well do for ourselves. If we had self discipline and put our litter in places provided, we would save our government that expense.

The actual cost to Michigan Highway Department in 1967 was $534,000 for litter pick-up. You do not have to pay a nickel deposit on your pop bottle now, but you pay 20 cents to have some one pick it up for you.

One consolation you can have during litter season, litter pick up gives some one a job. You pay for it.

Students of Grayling High School are giving conservation and nature a boost this spring by planting trees and shrubs on 160 acre parcel of land located a few miles northeast of Grayling and owned by the Crawford AuSable school district.

Howard Taylor, Grayling High School teacher, is heading up the campaign to improve and beautify the School District property. According to Taylor, the students have planted over 4,000 trees and shrubs.

The trees and shrubs will provide needed wildlife food and cover and future timber as well as an education on natural resources for the students. Much of the area is planned for a future outdoor laboratory.

The planting stock and equipment were provided by the Michigan Department of Conservation, the Crawford-Roscommon Soil Conservation District and the Oscoda Soil Conservation District. Technical aid in planning the project was provided by the Crawford-Roscommon Soil Conservation District and the U.S. Soil Conservation Service located in Roscommon.

Letters To The Editor

To the Editor:
Let me introduce Steve Barab and myself as two juniors attending MSU. Last weekend 5/18/68, Steve and I were fortunate enough to visit the Grayling area for some trout fishing. Being originally from Cincinnati, Ohio, this was my first trip into northern Michigan. Steve and I want to commend the residents of the Grayling area and especially Max Borchart for his generous hospitality. It makes a person feel good to know that in this modern day there can still be found warm, friendly, hospitable folk as in Grayling.

Sincerely,

A REMINDER TO WOMEN

"One of the best things an adult woman can do for life insurance is to get a yearly pap test to detect possible cervical cancer," said John Cowan, MD, chairman of the Michigan Cancer Coordinating Committee, on behalf of the Michigan State Medical Society current effort to encourage women to get such a test regularly.

"All women over 21 should get a yearly pap test," he said. "The highest risk, however, is for women between the ages of 25 and 45."

"Cervical cancer is slow in spreading. Usually it stays in one spot for several years," he said. "When it is found early it is almost 100 percent curable."

"The pap test is simple, painless, and can be done very quickly," Doctor Cowan concluded. "All women over 21 should take the initiative and ask their doctor to take one for them."

"There is really no need for women to be dying of this disease today," Doctor Cowan continued. "And yet over 300 Michigan women die from it each year."

Doctor Cowan is chief of the division of adult health in the Michigan Department of Public Health and a member of the Michigan State Medical Society Cancer Committee.

WASHINGTON AND Small Business BY C. WILSON HARPER

A Two-Bit Solution

The 1968 American tourist, with daydreams of Paris, London and Rome dancing in his head, may be uncertain and edgy as his departure nears.

Many Americans of modest means who have saved for a long-awaited trip abroad may be asking, "Can we really afford it?"

There's the proposed travel tax hanging overhead. And inflation getting worse. And the income tax hike. How the family budget will stand up under these attacks, plus onslaughts by Europe's shopkeepers and service people, is a puzzle.

In Paris, there is concern whether the American tourists will be as numerous this summer. DeGaulle says the franc should not be dependent upon the dollar, but his countrymen in hotels, restaurants and shops are not convinced.

It remains to be seen whether Americans will invade the Continent in the usual numbers, or stay at home and defend the dollar, as the President has requested in view of our international trade deficit.

Congress has shelved the "Europe on $7 a Day" plan proposed by the Administration, but a tax on overseas airline tickets and a sharp reduction in duty-free purchases is likely to become law. This is more reasonable. But another plan to narrow the "travel gap"—the excess of U.S. tourist dollars compared with foreign spending here—promises to be highly controversial.

A Presidential Commission (National Federation of Independent Business)

Cutbacks here would be meaningful, compared to the nickel-and-dime gains likely from the two tourist programs.

Until Congress makes more constructive efforts to improve our spending expert and balancing import situation, and call foreign aid give-aways, it hardly seems appropriate to start a whole new form of foreign aid discount-style.
